

Pad

Comfortable and streamlined, classic and foresighted

The Pad lounge series attains its special character from the combinations of materials, tactility and shape. Molded shells in oak veneer stand in contrast to a soft padded front while a metal frame adds strength and airiness. In full, a balanced design which captures the comfortable and the streamlined, the classic and the foresighted. The shape is boxy, yet perfectly rounded; Organic texture and warmth flirt with cool shine in the meeting of wood, textile and steel. The front-padded design is as comfortable as it is elegant, making Pad the perfect addition to the sophisticated lounge or lobby.

Tap stool walnut

Tap

An unexpected yet familiar stackable stool

The rethinking of something as simple as a stool was the starting point for Normann Copenhagen's Tap stool. The designer Simon Legald has taken up the challenge and breathed new life into the traditional stool with original materials and details. In doing so, he has created a practical and beautiful design in the cross field of craftsmanship and industry. Tap is an unexpected, different, yet familiar stackable stool in a class of its own. The molded seat ensures good seating comfort and provides the stool with the same welcoming warmth known from upholstered furniture. The three legs have an integrated transition to the seat. This gives Tap the appearance of a unified whole, even when seen from the side.

Circus pouf small and large

Circus

Playful and sophisticated seating

Circus is a pouf that has an exclusive, Scandinavian feel, created by the Danish designer, Simon Legald. The pouf is rounded in shape, with the clean, graphic lines characteristic of Scandinavian design. The versatile Circus pouf allows contradictions to meet in a design whose style is strict and minimalist, while at the same time having a soft and inviting expression. Circus draws inspiration from antique Moroccan leather poufs, whose focus is on handcraft, and it explores the design construction and plays with the details. The traditional patchwork patterns are replaced by a plain triangle motif, giving the pouf a contemporary look. Circus is a playful, yet at the same time sophisticated, addition to any furnishing.

Function and aesthetic united in a simple design

Nicholai Wiig Hansen has created a table which unites function and aesthetics in a simple design. The refinement of the tabletop's sharpened edge complements the lacquered legs beautifully and gives the table a pure and minimalistic feel. The name, Tablo, refers to the English 'table' and the French 'tableau', the latter meaning a scenic, organized arrangement. With its simple expression, Tablo fits into most interior styles and is available in a small and large version.

Architectural little side table

Using the most elementary steel stock parts as their starting point, MSDS Studio has created an architectural little side table. Their design 'Stock' presents metal in a raw and deconstructed way, while retaining a delicate, rigid quality. The table's unconventional leg arrangement emphasizes the material's strength and produces an interesting composition of elements. The aesthetic negative spaces – the airy open area under the tabletop and the triangle between the angled legs – come from disregarding the traditional arrangement of table legs, creating a new form of symmetry. Stock appears as a small, strict piece of sculpture, which also serves as a practical, stable side table.

Lug

Balancing feminine elegance and industrial mechanics

The steel parts of vintage bicycles have provided inspiration for the design of the Lug table's simple steel frame. Its slender, slightly curved table legs emulate the front fork of a bicycle, almost giving the impression of a table in motion. The frame is joined by a prominent brass piece which highlights the honesty of its construction and contrasts nicely with the otherwise monochrome table. The name Lug refers to this particular kind of joint – a component that is very well known within the world of cycling and which often adds an esthetic touch to older models. The larger Lug table makes for an obvious companion piece to sofas in a lounge area, while the smaller table is suitable as a side table or bedside table.

Solid table

Solid

Japanese architecture meets Scandinavian craftsmanship

Solid is a minimalist coffee table made from natural, solid materials that unite Scandinavian craftsmanship with the basic principles of Japanese architecture. The result is a timeless and sturdy coffee table with a simple design stripped of unnecessary details. The designer, Lars Beller Fjetland, has based Solid's design on a more than 1,000 year old Japanese structure called Torii. Torii was originally the entrances to Shinto temples, which were used for worship and storage of sacred objects. The reference is evident in the choice of materials that are in tune with the original wood and stone used for the Torii gates, but with a Scandinavian twist.

Sculptural design
shines light on pinewood

There is something both earthily Nordic and expressively avant-garde about the collection of small tables that go by the name Pine. The tables are made from solid pine in a characterful and sculptural design. The choice of pinewood sets the tone for the design of the Pine tables. The tables gain a pleasing organic quality from the wood's distinctive grain, and the overlooked wood species is given new life in a playful form. With its voluminous octangular foot, Pine can lend prominence and vigor to any room.

Jam

Composed of just three different elements

Composed of just three different elements, the Jam bookcase is a cleverly and elegantly executed design. The defining element is a wedge, which allows the bookcase to be assembled without the use of screws or tools. The shelves are quite simply jammed onto the wedges and then gravity and friction take care of the rest. The shelves' softly rounded corners give the unit an inviting and friendly visual expression. With its versatile design, the bookcase works just as well in small apartments as it does in large offices, where its purity and materiality craft a calming and pleasant presence.

Functional storage in a sensible design

Designer Simon Legald has put storage in the hot seat with a series of furniture that solves most storage needs. The Kabino series consists of two different sideboards, a bedside table and two dressers with five and six drawers respectively. The many small details of the designs help create a visual break in the uniform surface of the front and add dynamics. A frame of ash softens the industrial expression and adds warmth and exclusivity. The signature open handles in doors and drawers give an integrated look. All the drawers have a soft close function, which means that they close silently.
